

the police and recently both were arrested. Dire was able to bring about sufficient influence to cause release of his friend through charging the woman known as Mrs. McDonough with robbery. McDonough learned of the trick — and the two met last night. According to the pieced-together tale there was little said as the two men met just under an elevated station. Both drew revolvers and started shooting. Dire was killed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE HEARD BY MANY HERE MONDAY

William D. Kilpatrick, C. S. B., Detroit, Mich., member of the board of lecturers of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., addressed an audience at Central High School, Monday night. He said in part:

"Taking the Bible for our sole authority we find God to be Truth, Life, Love, Spirit, Principle, and Mind. And thus, with the aid of the Bible, we have dematerialized completely our sense of God and find Him without a single material or bodily accompaniment or part. And we find Him available right here and now in just the proportion that we now express or reflect Him as His image and likeness in our individual thinking.

Now, with our concept of God completely removed from the realm of materiality, what must be concluded as to His creation? What must be the natural subsequent to a spiritual antecedent? The answer is obvious. To dematerialize our sense of God, the Creator of all, means that we must dematerialize our sense of man and the universe, and that is exactly what Christian Science does. To assume that God, or Spirit, could be evidenced or reflected by matter or physicality, by mortal man and a material universe, involves the impossible. According to the true account of creation given in the first chapter of Genesis we find man and the universe created spiritually and perfect, and so they must ever remain, as perfect and eternal as their Creator. Any other account of creation depicting man as material, sick, sinning, fallen, and dying is false and must ever remain so.

The Bible does not depict two creations. It points to the spiritual as the only true and permanent creation and instructs mankind how to proceed out of the bondage of a material misconception of things, into their freedom as children of God. The Bible, spiritually interpreted and rightly understood, does not teem with ambiguities, but contains a clear and concise method of escape from the bondage of man-made theories into our God-given freedom.

But, some may say, how is one to believe that the material is untrue and unreal when the five physical senses bear constant evidence of the reality of matter? Do we not see, feel, taste, smell, and hear materiality? True enough. In fact the only evidence we have of a material universe is through seeing, feeling, tasting, smelling, and hearing materiality. That being settled, the question, then, of the reality of matter, or that which we see, feel, taste, smell, and hear, revolves around the trustworthiness of the five physical senses. Let us see how trustworthy and reliable these five physical senses are. All will agree that whatever an omnipotent and eternal God has created must be everlasting and eternal, and not subject to change or mutations of time. If God has created the five physical senses as the carnal mind, which he says mortal thinking or the mortal "is enmity against God"? In the eighth chapter of the book of Romans this entire subject is handled in a most conclusive manner where it is written: "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded (to think materially) is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. So when they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But," it goes on to say, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you."

In the clear light of Scriptural senses would not do or think. And is not this sufficient evidence that our material concept of creation, which is cognizable only through the five physical senses, is evidently the product of mind which St. Paul describes as the carnal mind, which he says mortal thinking or the mortal "is enmity against God"? In the eighth chapter of the book of Romans this entire subject is handled in a most conclusive manner where it is written: "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded (to think materially) is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. So when they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But," it goes on to say, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you."

Whatever our material antecedents may have been, the question as to the identity of the progenitors of mortals loses all of its importance in the light of Jesus' most pointed statement, when, referring to this mortal or fleshly man, he said: "Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is not truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of it."

authority and of Paul's concise statement that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God," why waste valuable time in speculating on the so-called theory of material evolution or in the attempt to prove or to disprove that this mortal man, this so-called man of flesh and blood and bones, had his origin in the jungles of darkest Africa with an ape, a baboon, or a monkey for his ancestors?

PENNSYLVANIA GOES TO POLLS AS WET AND DRY BATTLE GROUND

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 18.—Volstead Act to permit the sale of light wines and beers. Although the Democrats have no contest for their Senatorial nomination, William B. Wilson who served as secretary of labor under Woodrow Wilson has been stumping the state in the interests of his "bone dry" platform.

Efforts to inject into the campaign the issue of "supporting the president" have been made, but since each of the three Republican candidates have pledged themselves to aid the Coolidge administration this move failed to swing the interests of the voters away from prohibition.

Pinchot, however, has attacked the candidacy of Pepper because of his backing by the interests headed by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew J. Mellon. The governor also has sought to appeal to the miners of the state on his record in connection with the last anthracite strike.

In this move he has been supported by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who stumped the state with

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for forty-seven years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purgative" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Pinchot during the last week of the campaign and urged the miners to support the governor's candidacy.

The so-called "wet bloc" in Congress also has recognized the fight on the prohibition question in Pennsylvania and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, Democrat, recently spoke in behalf of Vire at Philadelphia.

In both the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial contests the wet and dry issue also has been the principal cause of the contest.

Indications are that one of the heaviest votes in the history of the state will be cast today as the voters register not only their views on candidates, but on the prohibition question as well.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

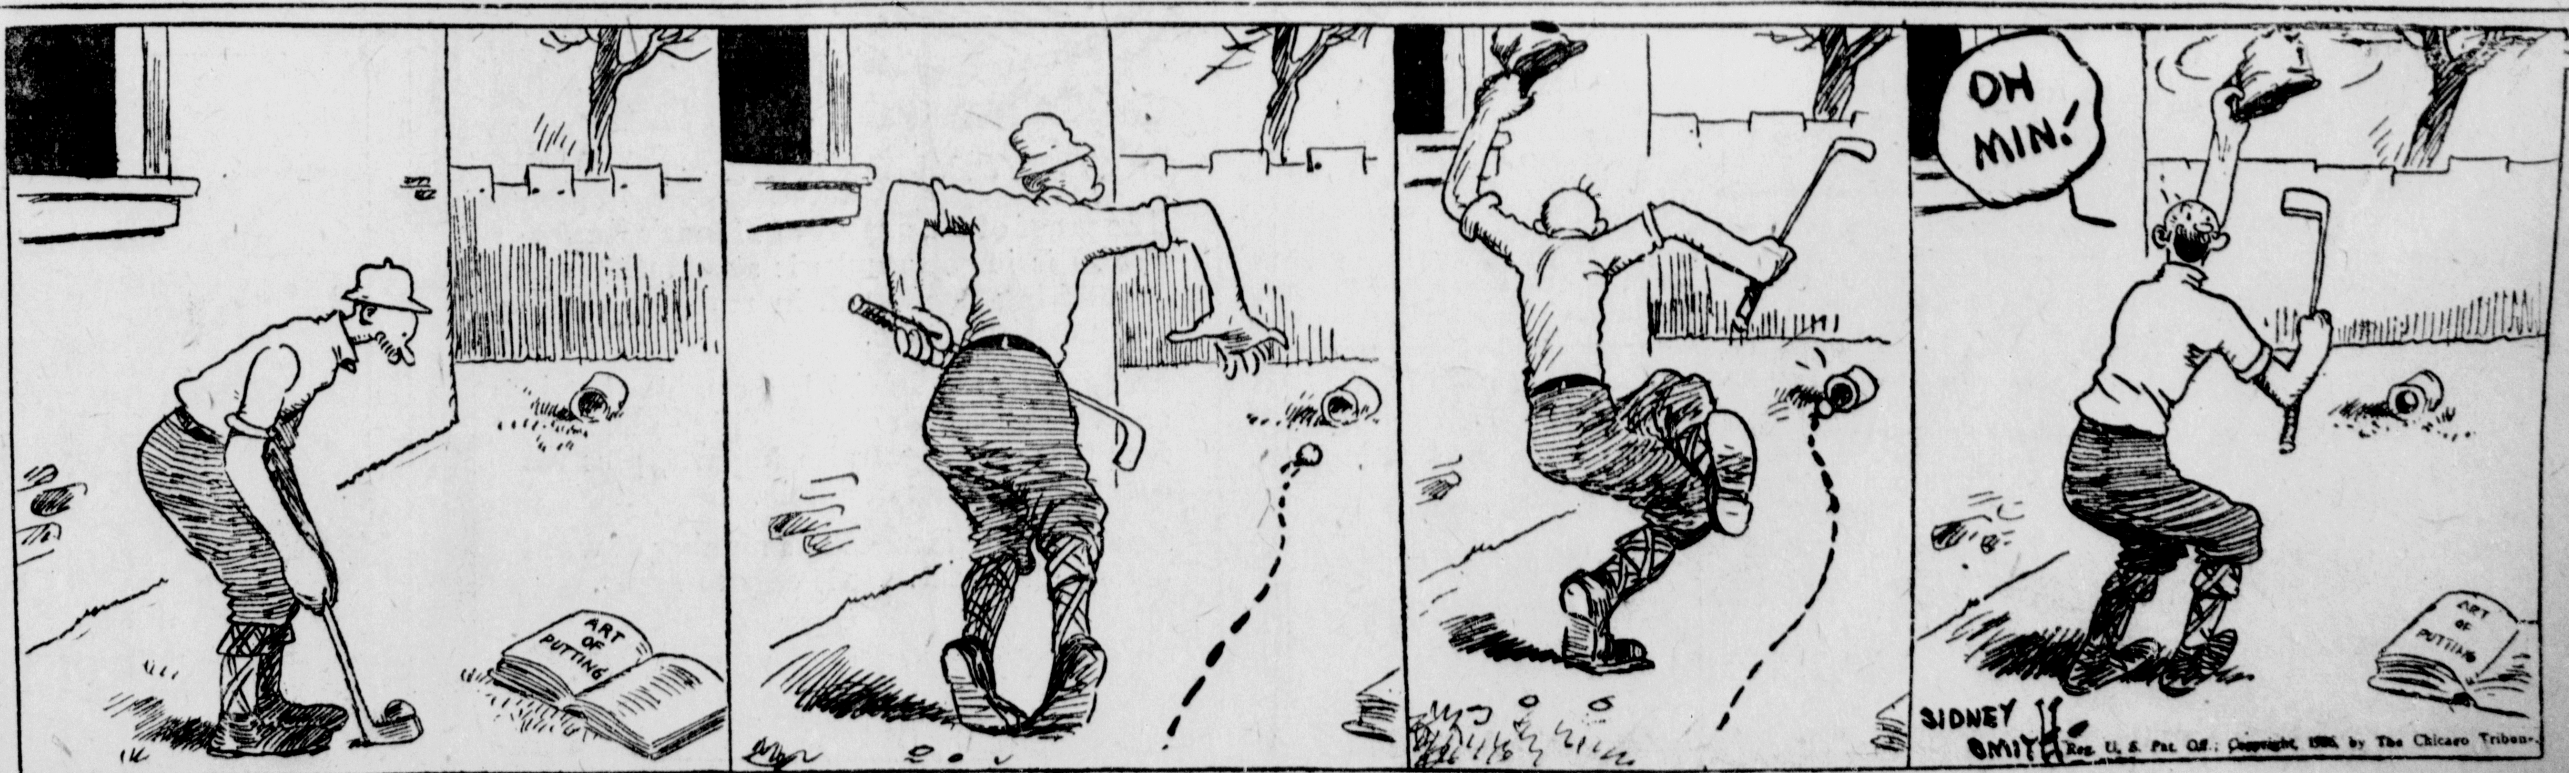

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found it hard to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it. IRVING BERLIN

The name of Irving Berlin has of late been in the newspaper headlines again.

The man who was once a singing waiter, fighting life in one of the world's most terrifying battlefields, the New York Bowery now finds himself famous.

He started his career in that poverty stricken manner which highbrows love to talk and write about, mixing the word 'art' frequently in their conversation.

Unfortunately for Berlin's status as a "classic" musician, but fortunately for his worldly and material success, he coupled with his music a business talent and a gift of making progress in other things besides the writing of music.

For that reason and because he appealed to the great mass of people Berlin can never be written into history as 'a master'.

Not that some of the songs he has written would not compare favorably with the songs of some of the great German writers, not that the words of these songs are less sensible, not that the melodies are less sweet, not that they contain less of the real pathos and delight of life, but because the writer is popular, successful and, sad to say, an American. But for these latter handicaps, some critic might have discovered Berlin and before the people could have seized on his music, before the men who publish songs could have adorned the covers with pictures of vividly beautiful girls, named him as a master, a classic, told how he sacrificed even his appetite to his art, and worshipped at his shrine.

As things stand, Berlin will die some day, be praised for his success, not in the musical sense of the world, and be criticized as very contemporary by obituary writers, even as the great Puccini was criticized. It is customary to wait until a man dies before writing 'he brought joy and happiness to millions of people.' But why wait?

SPURNED

OF its literary men the public demands originality and eccentricity in the sense of being different from the common mold. It is one of the professional obligations of the author to promulgate new ideas and to travel ever away from the conventional and the expected.

Sinclair Lewis' rejection of the $1000 Pulitzer prize, awarded for his novel "Arrowsmith" was not anticipated but such a step by some author is now seen to have been inevitable. With so many prizes and so many winners accepting them here was a long neglected opportunity for some writer to be different by rejecting one.

Lewis' reasons for rejecting the Pulitzer award have some merit if they are as he states them and his action was not prompted by a genius for self-exploitation. His letter to the prize committee sets forth that he is protesting against this sort of compulsion put upon writers to become safe, polite, obedient and sterile. He contends the prize is awarded not for literary merit but for conformity to the moment's code of good form, and that literary prizes are dangerous because they make their administrators supreme courts impossible to challenge.

Now times have changed and motor cars rob distance of their fright.

And youth can take his sweetheart home and not waste all the night.

But in the days when we were young who paused to say farewell

Would hear unto his sad dismay the last car's warning bell; Oh, many a cold and cheerless mile I've trudged at break of day.

The weary escort of the girl who lived so far away.

Sometimes a hostess to oblige, sometimes from fancy's whim.

I'd ask to see young ladies home, the fat ones and the slim.

Though there were forty in the throng, no maiden fair I drew Fate always handed me the girl from the other end of town.

HARKING BACK TO THE OLD DAYS

She must by now be much too old to take offense at this.

The lovely girl I used to know, but never dared to kiss,

The pretty girl, the witty girl who fascinated me,

The girl at every party that I marveled much to see;

Sometimes her eyes were azure blue, sometimes a lovely brown,

The girl whose home was always at the other end of town.

I never wooed a handy girl or one who dwelt near by,

Some fellows drew the girl next door, but no such luck had I.

'Twas mine to walk along at night seven dreary miles and long.

Greene County History

LIVESTOCK OF COUNTY

With establishment of the Greene County Agricultural Society in 1833 more attention was paid to the improvement of all kinds of live stock. The step taken in 1880 regarding sheep, followed by the beginning of the county fair three years later, marks a new step in the livestock industry of the county.

Whatever may have been the standing of the farmers of the county in earlier years, the fact remains that today they stand at the top in the live-stock industry in Ohio. Statement has also been made frequently, and not disputed, Greene County produces more pure-blood, registered live stock, more varieties and of a higher class than any other spot on the globe for its size.

The live-stock breeders of the county have been exhibiting at the state fair at Columbus, for more than a quarter of a century, and in some years there are as many as twenty exhibitors from the county. On more than one occasion they have won as much as $2,000 in prizes on their horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.

Hundreds of prizes have been won at the state fair by Greene County farmers and not a few at national exhibits. It is actually true the cash prizes won by Greene County exhibitors at the state fair total more than the combined winnings of any other three counties of the state. Many of the best stockmen have been exhibiting for years at the state fairs of other states and at livestock shows all over the United States. Blooded live stock raised in this county is shipped to practically every state in the union, and on more than one occasion to Europe.

One of the greatest showings the county ever made was at the St. Louis Exposition in 1903 when five breeders of the county competed with the best the world had to offer and carried home 140 prizes. Of this total there were fifty first prizes including some of the most valuable offered.

The International Stock Show held at Chicago each year has seen Greene County stock exhibited, and no year goes by that some championship is not won by local breeders. A bull from the herd of O. E. Bradfute was champion of his class for three straight years, a record unequaled in ancient and modern times. Another Greene County bull achieved a record almost as good. Wherever a cattleman may be found, he will have heard of Lucy's Prince and Whitehall Sultan.

Bradfute was also one of the nine men who helped organize the International Stock Show at Chicago. No other county in the country is as well represented with officers and directors of the leading live stock pedigree registry associations of America as Greene.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Finds it Hard to Shop for Other People BY J. V. JAY

"Such a nice, long letter from Estelle," announces Mitzi. Estelle is going to be married, and just think she's near a nervous breakdown and has called upon Mitzi to help her out. Will Mitzi please do a little shopping for her? There follows two or three pages of items.

Now that Mitzi sees these pocketbooks are marked so reasonably, she must have one. The pocket books are large and of reptile skin in plain and motif effects. When a shopping list is out of sight it is certainly out of mind. Mitzi never realized how is a little organized labor. Well, tomorrow is another day. A shopping day for Mitzi, too.

Today's Talk

ON SAYING THINGS

There is always a beautiful way to say things. Just as there is a beautiful way to act or to build a house or to finish a room.

The lovely character cannot help but give expression to beautiful thoughts that come out in words full of pleasing appeal.

Everyone, upon maturity, has a way of expressing themselves in words. And this way gives you the key to their character. It may be beautiful or an ugly way that they may have.

But there is always a beautiful way to say everything. Nothing so cuts into one's heart as a mis-spoken word that falls clumsily. Rarely, perhaps, the hurt was meant at all. Nevertheless when a word has gone from the lips, it cannot be recalled. Years may go, but so long as memory lives, the scar of a mis-spoken word may remain.

It is fine to forgive and to forget so far as on your power lies, but to be highly tuned to the receipt of beautiful words from a warm and understanding heart is to own one of the finest gifts God gives to human beings.

The beautiful way of saying things to everybody you know or meet is the only way. The other way wasn't meant at all.

If you can't speak sincerely and well, then don't speak at all. Silence leaves no sad memories.

The happy voice over the telephone, the early morning greeting, the first words after separation from your friends—how important to make them full of beauty vibrant with the soul of you.

"Eczema broke out on my face in pimples and bothered me for a long time. The pimples were red and festered and I could not get a peaceful sleep at night on account of the irritation. My face was a terrible sight, and I dreaded to go anywhere."

After using it I could see a difference so purchased more, and after using two cakes of Soap and two or three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss C. SENIORS HIT SMITH HARD AND WALLOP JUNIOR BALL TEAM

Hitting the offerings of Smith to all corners of the lot, the seniors won a slug-fest from the juniors 20 to 9 in the third of the intramural class baseball series at Central Senior High School at Washington Park Monday afternoon. Contest was called at the end of seven innings by agreements.

Seniors pushed across three tallies in the first, followed with ten more in the second, another in the fourth, two in the sixth and tallied four times in the seventh.

After a poor start in which the juniors scored three runs in the first, Scurry pitched well blanking the lower classmen for the next five innings. He eased up, secure in a big lead, in the seventh and the juniors shoved over six counters.

The victory enabled the seniors to tie the juniors for second place one victory and one defeat. Sophomores are leading in the series with one victory and no setbacks.

Senior lineup: Findlay, ss; Boxwell, 2b; Stearns, 1b; Parrett, c; Hicks, 3b; Nash, rf; Scurry, p. Junior lineup: Smith, p; Bottorff, 2b; Haverstick, 1b; Tull, c; Burrell, cf; Cremer, 3b.

By taking three games, Regan would have made a roll-off necessary. He ended the season with a record of seventeen victories against ten defeats. Horner finishing with eighteen wins and nine losses. Ben Dice, should he win three straight from Charles Malavazos this week, will tie

SCHOOL DISTRICT SUIT IS STARTED

Trial of the $170 suit of Walter Hess against the Beaver Creek Twp., Rural School District board of education began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday without a jury.

The children were allowed to attend Xenia Central High School, three miles distant, instead of Beaver Creek High School, four miles away, during that period, plaintiff continues.

DRUG STORE PROVES FAVORITE RENDEZVOUS FOR XENIA LOAFERS

"Meet you at—" Village, hamlet, city, notwithstanding the size of the community every town has its favorite meeting place, its own rendezvous where devoted couples, boys or girls make appointments and lounge around to gossip.

Of course the type of meeting place will depend largely upon the size of the community. In a city the size of Xenia it might be a drug store and as a matter of fact it is a drug store, more than one, however.

Drug Stores on E. Main and S. Detroit St. are Xenia's own spots where young people are in the habit of meeting.

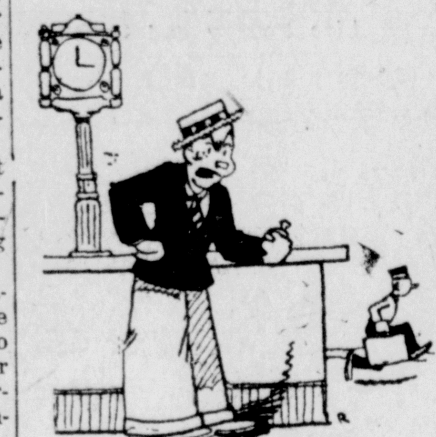

Their popularity is not hard to explain as favorite meeting places must have certain qualifications or they would not be a mecca for the leisure-loving persons. Their popularity may decline as such after a certain length of time but it revives.

Presence of a clock is no doubt one requirement. That is why traction car or railway terminals, if located advantageously, are among the favorites.

Reason for a clock explains itself. It is evident if persons make an appointment they will wish to glance at a clock to see if their dates are being kept. Shelter, particularly in bad weather, is important.

Xenia drug stores are in demand because they are centrally located, they are close to places of amusement and business establishments, also to street car and bus stops.

Local merchants appear to encourage the use of their stores as meeting places providing any attraction and permitting the run of the establishment. Stock attractively displayed may catch the eye of someone waiting and a sale results. Especially is it true in Xenia the soda fountain operator knows the value of having young people loiter er near the counter. It is surprising how some people will "kill" a little time by lingering over some tasty drink or duff.

There are usually so many attractions at these waiting places that loafing may become rather expensive in time.

CENTRAL SENIORS TO HOLD CLASS DAY EXERCISES MAY 28

An innovation in school programs, Class Day exercises will be held by students of Central High School at Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Friday afternoon, May 28, at 1:30 o'clock.

Class Day program was arranged by a student committee composed of Miss Helen Rentinger and Edward Flynn. Plans include the reading of the "class will" the "class prophecy" the valedictory, presentation of the senior class memorial and the announcement of the recipient of the Premier Rose.

Names of the students honored with the Premier Rose, signifying high standing in scholastic and social work and general popularity, will not be divulged until Class Day according to Principal Spencer Shank.

Presentation of the Premier Rose was inaugurated several years ago, the flower being presented to boy and girl representatives of the senior class.

Valedictory will be given by Miss Maud Winn Monroe. Miss Dorothy Bocklett will read the class prophecy and Melvin McDaniel will read the class will.

Presentation of the class memorial will be made by George Perrill, president of the senior class. Hubert Glass, member of the junior class and representing the entire student body will acknowledge the gift.

Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra.

SPRING HERE? SURE,
GAS PRICE GOES UP

Spring has come or words to that effect.

A one-cent boost in the price of gasoline and kerosene, the inevitable harbinger of the touring season, was announced Tuesday by the Standard Oil Co., effective Tuesday morning.

The new price is twenty-four cents per gallon for gasoline at service stations and twenty-two cents at tank wagons. Kerosene tank wagons price is now seventeen cents and at filling stations nineteen cents.

As the Standard Oil Co. is regarded as the tacker, other large refining companies in the city are expected to make similar increases.

Increase price of crude oil effective this week is regarded as partly responsible for the price boost in the refined product.

RADIO WISE CRACKS WILL ROUT STATIC BLUES-COMPETE WITH FLIVVER JOKES

"McGirk got married yesterday."
"Oh, did they go on a honey-moon?"
"Naw, they stayed home and heard the roar of Niagara Falls broadcast."

Salesman—"This radio is great for home amusement. You can tune in on the funniest programs in the world."

Customer—"I don't need it. I'm on a party line telephone."

"The invention of radio is not so new."

"No?"

"No. The first loudspeaker was made from Adam's rib."

"I told Bill I got a raise and was going to buy a six tube set."

"What did he say?"

"He patted me on the head and said: 'Pretty soft, kid, pretty soft!'"

"That stuff coming in tonight sure sounds wild!"

"You'd be wild too if you were just coming out of the ether."

"There's my new radio set."

"Will it work, or did you build it yourself?"

"The trouble with radio is that you listen but can't talk back."

"Oh, I'm used to that. I've been married for twenty-one years."

"I can't figure out what's wrong with my set. Maybe I need a new vacuum tube."

"Use your head, man, use your head."

"Who invented radio concerts?"

"A homely soprano."

My Matrimonial Vacation

by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Husband Hunter," "One Wife on Approval," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

NANCY LARRABEE becomes a matrimonial free lance when her husband, a young army officer, is sent to the Philippines on foreign duty. Nancy stays home with her mother.

VIRGINIA, who uses the girl's charm and beauty to help get what she wants in the world or society, Their landlord.

FRANK HARRISON, falls in love with Nancy, who tries to transfer his attentions to her mother, who is nearer his age. She gets into difficulty there, as she also does when trying to straighten out the matrimonial tangles of her other friends.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXVII—A THREAT FOR THE FUTURE

I COULD hardly sleep that night for wondering about Nathalie Jordan. There could be no mistake about it being her husband whom I had seen at the door of her apartment house. If he went to her and begged her to forgive him, would she do it? Or would she be hard and relentless and turn away from him? I tried to put myself in her place. If Jim came to me and wanted to begin all over again, I was sure that I'd be glad to do it. But then, even though I'd tried hard I'd never been able to stop caring for him.

I got up early the next morning, thinking that I'd stop on the way home from my morning walk and see Nathalie. I was sure that she would tell me if she and her husband had made up their differences. The park was beautiful, and almost empty. There were a few horseback riders on the bridge path, and I passed two girls who evidently were walking to work. I couldn't help wishing that I could do something practical, and had a job, so that my time amounted to something.

I felt very useless, just good for nothing. It was only when I remembered that I had been of some help to Nathalie, and to Nick, that I felt more cheerful.

I was tramping along a side path, enjoying the sharp, crisp air, when I heard a man's voice say "Mrs. Larrabee! Just a moment!"

Turning quickly I saw Phil Leland at my side.

He was anything but welcome. After the events that had taken place at our last meeting I hadn't expected ever to see him again if he could possibly help it.

"I won't keep you long," he said abruptly. "I just want to warn you that if I can get even with you for what you did the other night I'll do it."

"You mean my spilling your plan to blackmail Nathalie Jordan?" I asked.

He winced at my plain speaking. "You had no right to interfere—you're as much of a crook as I am," he told me. "I suppose you think she's your game, and you don't want anybody else to step in. Well, I'm not through yet, and before I get through you're going to be sorry that you stood in my way."

He turned then and went off in the other direction. I watched him sent him straight to her, realizing that he cared for her and wanted to protect her.

But the next day I received a square white box, which contained a gold mesh bag with an emerald clasp, the duplicate of the one I had lost one evening when I was out with Nathalie and Phil Leland.

"Dear Nancy," Nathalie had written on the card, "You lost your own bag because I saw fit to keep questionable company—I shall always feel sure that Phil Leland took it. So won't you please accept this from me, in restitution, and as a token of my deep affection for you?"

I laughed softly as I picked it up. Evidently fate intended me to have a beautiful bag, my matter how many times a new one had to be given me. I thought of the little cheap one that I had lost, and of the beautiful one Frank Harrison had given me to make up for it—and then I had lost that, and now Nathalie was sending me another one.

What would happen to this bag? If I had known the answer to that question, I would have thrown the bag out of the window that very moment.

The Theatre

Two guests of honor were given the same topic: "What shall we do about jazz?" at a music forum luncheon in Manhattan last week, given by the American League of Professional Women.

Mme d'Alvarez, Peruvian contralto, declared "Jazz is my reason for living in New York City. I prefer to live in New York because here I find the inspiration of good jazz music. New York is jazz incarnate. Its architecture, its business, its life—all sparkle to a syncopated measure. An honest jazz tune is better than a sermon on prohibiting anything. When I die I have only one request to make, I want music at my funeral but no dirge or mournful lament. Play only one thing and let that number be George Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue.' To me it is truly great music and certainly it is the music that best expresses us moderns."

Taking the place of the usual monument of marble, Arthur Hammerstein, famed Manhattan theatrical producer, son of Oscar, famed impresario, will build another memorial to his father who died in 1919. He will erect a "Temple of Music" fifteen stories high, to be used for light operas and musical shows "of a distinctive type." It will be at the corner of Broadway and 53rd St., with a seating capacity of 1,200, built with some $2,000,000 of the profits of "Rose-Marie." In the lobby will stand a life-size figure of the elder Hammerstein. At the official opening, probably in September, 1927, will appear many of the singers who began or advanced their professional careers under his banner—Melba, Calve, Tetrazzini, Mary Garden and John McCormack.

Fifteen years' experience has taught casting directors and movie producers generally that women are things to be loved, not hated.

Theda Bara, in the belief of James Cruze, film director, was the only woman who ever scored a success as a screen villain. Directors and producers have given up the search for an actress to duplicate the feat of Theda in "The Vampire," filmed more than a decade ago. "The public can not hate a feminine villain," Cruze says.

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—Figures assembled covering retail sales in various Ohio cities for the two weeks prior to Mother's Day, show that the rapidly increasing observance of this holiday is developing a new merchandising season, comparable to that which precedes Easter and Christmas. Reports received from department, dry goods, jewelry, furniture and music stores show that in nearly every Ohio city, substantial and luxurious articles, suitable for Mother's Day gifts, were sold in tremendous volume. Sales this year were far larger than last. Experts in marketing and distribution this year studied very carefully the growing tendency of the American people to make Mother's Day a general gift-giving occasion. They point out that holiday observance has a tremonds bearing on retail sales, and that in Mother's Day we are witnessing the quiet but surprisingly rapid development of a new selling season which in the future, will have an unusual bearing on many lines of merchandise production and distribution.

FEDERAL APPEAL OF TEAPOT DOME LEASE CASE CONSIDERED

Judges Will Decide On Annulment Of Oil
Lease

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 18.—The government appeal from the decision against annulment of the famous Teapot Dome oil lease to the Sinclair interests was under consideration of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today.

Arguments in the appeal were finished late Monday—arguments which lasted more than six hours. Last night the three judges, William S. Kenyon, Arba Van Valkenburg and William A. Cuntz, gave no indication of when they would announce their decision.

Government attorneys, headed by Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, charged Judge T. Blake Kennedy, who last year refused annulment of the leases on the ground there was no fraud or irregularity, "had started out with a slant of mind against the government."

Roberts also charged the lease was illegal, contrary to the statutes of the United States and that the government had been blocked from showing its entire testimony at the Cheyenne, Wyo., hearing.

The name of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior was brought into the case frequently during the hearing, Roberts charging some of his actions constituted "badges of fraud."

Felton resigned under fire recently when Crabbe assailed him for permitting gambling at Beulah Park race track. The council's action was interpreted today as a direct challenge to the Attorney General.

Felton, tendered his resignation forty minutes before he was scheduled to go on trial before Gov. Donahy, from had been suspended ten days previously.

It was not known today what action, if any, Crabbe will take. The races at Beulah ended Saturday.

FADED CURTAIN DESCENDS TO
MARK END OF ACADEMY OF MUSIC

NEW YORK, May 18.—The wheezy fall of a faded gray curtain was the swan song of the old Academy of Music, cradle of opera in New York's yesterdays.

But the voice of the academy had long been silent. The wistful notes of "Home Sweet Home" as sung by the incomparable Patti the drawing voice of E. H. Sothern, the words or songs of Modjeska, Edwin Booth, Salvini, Lawrence Barrett, John McCullough, Campani, Ole Bull—all once shared in making the voice of the academy vibrant and alive.

But the gray curtain last night made its final descent. On the site will rise a skyscraper of the Consolidated Gas Company.

The farewell was arranged as a touch of sentiment and appropriately an aria from "Norma" opened the performance. Ushers in the garb of another day, brought to their seats old ladies and grave old gentlemen, in whose memories the academy still lives.

CEDARVILLE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO TURN PRESBYTERIAN

Last Congregation of This Denomination In Ohio To Change—Is 115 Years Old—Will Continue
To Support College

After 115 years of existence, the Reformed Presbyterian Church, of General Synod, of Cedarville, the last of its denomination in the state of Ohio, may soon surrender this distinction.

Plans under advisement for more than a year reached a head Monday night when the congregation practically unanimously voted to petition the Ohio Presbytery and through it the General Synod to certify the Cedarville congregation with all its property rights to the Dayton Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church.

A strong representation of the congregation attended the meeting and such opposition that may exist to the plan is only passive.

The Ohio Presbytery meets Wednesday evening at Cedarville and it is expected to take action to refer the matter to the General Synod which meets at Cedarville Thursday.

It is considered certain the congregation will be admitted to the Dayton Presbytery.

Congregation wishes to join the Presbyterian Church for the purpose of deriving the benefits of more constant Presbyterian associations than is possible under the present affiliation.

There are only about a dozen other Reformed Presbyterian Churches of General Synod in the United States. The denomination formerly was strong but has since fallen off rapidly. The church in Cedarville is the last in Ohio.

The Reformed Presbyterian Church of General Synod differs but slightly from the Presbyterian as it is Presbyterian in policy and doctrine but a few ecclesiastical terms are different. For instance, the congregation sings psalms instead of hymns.

The Cedarville congregation celebrated the 100th anniversary of its existence about 1909.

The Rev. W. P. Harriman, pastor of the church for the past seven or eight years, will be willing to follow the footsteps of the congregation and remain in this capacity, it is understood. It is believed the General Synod will allow him to qualify as a Presbyterian minister.

The church will not be united with any other congregation in making the change as there has been no Presbyterian church in Cedarville. Congregation is not large but the change will involve 25 people.

It is also thought that Cedarville College, supported since its institution by the Reformed Presbyterian Church, General Synod will be unaffected by the change. Congregation may continue to lend its support.

PASTOR WILL FIGHT EXTRADITION CASE

OKENOS, Mich., May 18.—Rev. William J. Calow, pastor of Okenos and Holt Methodist Churches, will fight extradition from Illinois to stand trial for desertion of his wife, it was learned here today.

Calow left Okenos May 1 with out making his destination known. Mrs. Calow applied to Prosecutor Harry F. Little for a desertion warrant and arrest of the preacher in Chicago, followed.

Calow has employed an attorney and will ask Governor Len Small of Illinois to refuse the state's extradition request according to officers here.

AMERICA FACING THREE PLACIES

AKRON, O., May 18.—America is facing three plagues—disregard of law and constituted authority, the inordinate desire for pleasure and third, a desire for easy money—Gov. Donahy believes.

Addressing the South Akron board of trade the governor stressed that "the country does not need additional laws but proper administration of the existing ones."

The executive said he believed that because of the hundreds of bills passed by a general assembly during a single session, it is impossible to consider each bill intelligently.

In conclusion the governor advocated segregation and classification of state convicts.

FALSE REPORT SAYS MRS. IRVING BERLIN

PARIS, May 18.—The Berlin Mackay dynasty may be perpetuated, but an heir to the fortune built on melodies will not interrupt the musical researches of the composer at present.

"I haven't had a baby and I have no reason to expect one in the near future," Ellin Mackay told the United Press laughingly at reports from the United States of expected heir in the Berlin family.

Then, she dashed off for an evening's dancing on Monte Martre with her husband Irving.

BOTH PARTIES WATCH RESULT OF PRIMARY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Both Democrats and Republicans Interested
But Silent

COLUMBUS, O., May 18.—Both Democratic and Republican circles today watched with interest the Pennsylvania Republican primary in which three candidates were competing for the United States senatorial nomination.

Although the primary drew unusual interest, leaders of both parties were reticent, refusing to discuss the campaign and the chance of the respective aspirants, Gov. Clifford Pinchot, dry, Senator George Wharton Pepper, present incumbent and William S. Vars, an avowed wet.

Meanwhile extreme quietude prevailed in the Ohio political situation. The only matter considered of moment was the call issued by Thomas Dye, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee for a meeting of Democratic leaders here on June 2.

Members of the state central and executive committees and district and county committees have been asked to attend the conference, at which, it was understood, plans to make 1926 a Democratic year, will be outlined.

Two speakers of national prominence will be invited here for the occasion, Dye said.

KELLOGG POWERED TO SPLIT LANDS

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 18.—According to authoritative sources, Secretary of State Kellogg has received Peru's consent for a division of the Tacna-Arica territories with Chile.

It also was said they have agreed to recognize Bolivia's aspirations for a Pacific outlet and the diplomatic negotiations now going on in Washington are declared to have progressed to the point where the amount of compensation Chile and Peru will receive from Bolivia for a port is the chief basis of the present discussions.

Chile would receive the province of Arica by the plan. If Chile consents, it will mark the approaching end of the Tacna-Arica dispute which has kept South America unsettled for more than thirty years.

MEN DUEL OVER HONESTY OF WOMAN ALONG CHICAGO STREET

CHICAGO, May 18.—A duel, the police and recently both were arrested. Dye was able to bring about sufficient influence to cause release of his friend through charging the woman known as Mrs. McDonough with robbery.

McDonough learned of the trick and the two met last night. According to the pieced-together tale there was little said as the two men met just under an elevated station. Both drew revolvers and started shooting.

Dye was killed.

GRAND JURY PROBES SYNDICATE SAID TO INVOLVE BEER SALE

Report New Conspiracy Bigger Than Recent Alcohol Case

CLEVELAND, May 18.—The federal grand jury convened here today to unfold what authorities described as a "super bootleg trust ramifications of which are astounding."

Eighteen concerns, including brewers, situated in and near Scranton, Pa., a host of railroad officials and others are involved in the alleged syndicate, Federal operatives asserted.

Agents working on the case say, that already they have uncovered valuable evidence and that the outcome of the inquiry will carry results "far surpassing" those of the Superior Industrial Alcohol case in which 112 persons were indicted.

The probe will require three weeks, John B. Osmun, assistant federal attorney, who has assumed full charge, told Federal Judge Westenhaver.

Sixty men, a majority of them Pennsylvania railroad men, are among the first witnesses subpoenaed.

The alleged syndicate, it was charged, conspired to manufacture, sell and ship vast quantities of beer and alcohol.

ELLSWORTH DENIES REPORT THAT LAND WAS FOUND AT POLE

Flyer Reiterates Report
Expedition Saw No
Land

NOME, Alaska, May 18.—The Amundsen-Ellsworth Expedition found no land at the North Pole, members of the party now here reiterated today denying reports circulated in the states that "rocky islands" were seen at the pole.

The report, carried by a press association other than the United Press, was credited to Lincoln Ellsworth, who today emphatically denied he had made any such statement.

Captain Car Wisting and Lieut. Omdahl, supported Ellsworth's declaration.

"We were flying low at about 600 feet elevation when we crossed the pole," Ellsworth said, "and if there had been land there we would have seen it. However, we didn't; nothing but ice and patches of open water."

NEGROES HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

MAYFIELD, Ky., May 18.—An aroused community awaited the arraignment tomorrow of the two negroes accused of attacking Pearl Ligon, 16-year-old high school student.

The negroes, William Busby, 23, and J. L. Kelly, 21, were whisked away to Eddyville prison during the night, authorities fearing a mob would seize them.

Miss Ligon was attacked as she stepped on to the porch of her home. Her screams aroused the neighborhood and her alleged assailants soon were captured.

Feeling was at high pitch today and it was doubtful whether the negroes will be returned here or will be kept in Eddyville for the arraignment.

CONTINUE TO DROP

NEW YORK, May 18.—French and Belgian francs continued their decline at the opening of the foreign exchange market here today, both dropping to new low levels. French francs opened at 2.89 cents off 1-10 cent from last night's closing price and Belgian francs at 2.90 1/2 cents off 4 cents. Italian liras also dropped.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE HEARD BY MANY HERE MONDAY

William D. Kilpatrick, C. S. B., Detroit, Mich., member of the board of trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., addressed an audience at Central High School, Monday night. He said in part:

"Taking the Bible for our sole authority we find God to be Truth, Life, Love, Spirit, Principle, and Mind. And thus, with the aid of the Bible, we have dematerialized completely our sense of God and find Him without a single material or bodily accompaniment or part. And we find Him available right here and now in just the proportion that we express or reflect Him as His image and likeness in our individual thinking.

Now, with our concept of God completely removed from the realm of materiality, what must be concluded as to His creation? What must be the natural subsequent to a spiritual antecedent? The answer is obvious. To dematerialize our sense of God, the Creator of all, means that we must dematerialize our sense of man and the universe, and that is exactly what Christian Science does. To assume that God, or Spirit, could be evidenced or reflected by matter or physicality, by mortal man and a material universe, involves the impossible. According to the true account of creation given in the first chapter of Genesis we find man and the universe created spiritually and perfect, and so they must ever remain, as perfect and eternal as their Creator. Any other account of creation depicting man as material, sick, sinning, fallen, and dying is false and must ever remain so.

The Bible does not depict two creations. It points to the spiritual as the only true and permanent creation and instructs mankind how to proceed out of the bondage of a material misconception of things, into their freedom as children of God. The Bible, spiritually interpreted and rightly understood, does not seem with ambiguities, but contains a clear and concise method of escape from the bondage of man-made theories into our God-given freedom.

But, some may say, how is one to believe that the material is untrue and unreal when the five physical senses bear constant evidence of the reality of matter? Do we not see, feel, taste, smell, and hear materiality? True enough. In fact the only evidence we have of a material universe is through seeing, feeling, tasting, smelling, and hearing materiality. That being settled, the question, then, of the reality of matter, or that which we see, feel, taste, smell, and hear, revolves around the trustworthiness of the five physical senses. Let us see how trustworthy and reliable these five physical senses are. All will agree that whatever an omnipotent and eternal God has created must be everlasting and eternal, and not subject to change or the mutations of time. If God has created the five physical senses as mediums through which His universe is to be recognized, then these senses cannot be subject to any influence but that of God and must be as permanent and unalterable as God Himself. Just how unalterable and changeless are these senses? Why, they may be changed in almost an instant to bear opposite testimony to that which they are now bearing! They may even be obliterated entirely. For instance, place a man under a hypnotic spell, which is frequently done by those familiar with hypnotism, and the victim can be made to see, feel, taste, smell, and hear just the opposite to one not so influenced. It should be borne in mind that hypnotism is purely a mental process and involves nothing but the operation of the human mind, and yet it can be used to control the entire mechanism of the physical body. I have seen men under hypnotic influence do all sorts of things and think all sorts of things which a man in his right senses would not do or think.

And is not this sufficient evidence that our material concept of creation, which is cognizable only through the five physical senses, is evidently the product of mind which St. Paul describes as the carnal mind, which he says mortal thinking or the mortal "is enmity against God"? In the eighth chapter of the book of Romans this entire subject is handled in a most conclusive manner where it is written: "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded (to think materially) is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. So when they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But, it goes on to say, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you."

In the clear light of Scriptural

authority and of Paul's concise statement that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God," why waste valuable time in speculating on the so-called theory of material evolution or in the attempt to prove or to disprove that this mortal man, this so-called man of flesh and blood and bones, had his origin in the jungles of darkest Africa with an ape, a baboon, or a monkey for his ancestors?

PENNSYLVANIA GOES TO POLLS AS WET AND DRY BATTLE GROUND

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 18.—Volstead Act to permit the sale of Pennsylvania today was the wet and dry battleground of the county as some two million men and women went to the polls to cast votes in what has all the appearance of an unofficial referendum on the prohibition question.

In deciding the wet and dry fight these voters will select candidates for United States Senator, Governor, Representatives in Congress, and also name other state nominees.

Throughout the entire campaign despite the efforts of some leaders to concentrate on other issues, the prohibition question has remained in the fore.

In the race for the Republican senatorial nomination two drys are opposing one wet candidate. Gifford Pinchot, the state's militant dry governor, and Senator George Wharton Pepper, incumbent are the two exponents of the Volstead act and Eighteenth Amendment, while Congressman William S. Vore, of Philadelphia, is an out and out wet.

Vore's entire campaign has been built around his pledge to support measures for modification of the

since each of the three Republican candidates have pledged themselves to aid the Coolidge administration this move failed to swing the interests of the voters away from prohibition.

Pinchot, however, has attacked the candidacy of Pepper because of his backing by the interests headed by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew J. Mellon. The governor also has sought to appeal to the miners of the state on his record in connection with the last anthracite strike.

In this move he has been supported by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who stumped the state with

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for forty-seven years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purgé" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a Pinchot during the last week of the campaign and urged the miners to support the governor's candidacy.

The so-called "wet bloc" in Congress also has recognized the fight on the prohibition question in Pennsylvania and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, Democrat, recently spoke in behalf of Vore at Philadelphia.

In both the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial contests the wet and dry issue also has been the principal cause of the contest.

Indications are that one of the heaviest votes in the history of the state will be cast today as the voters register not only their views on candidates, but on the prohibition question as well.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

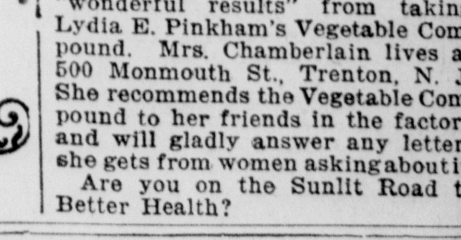

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught in school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

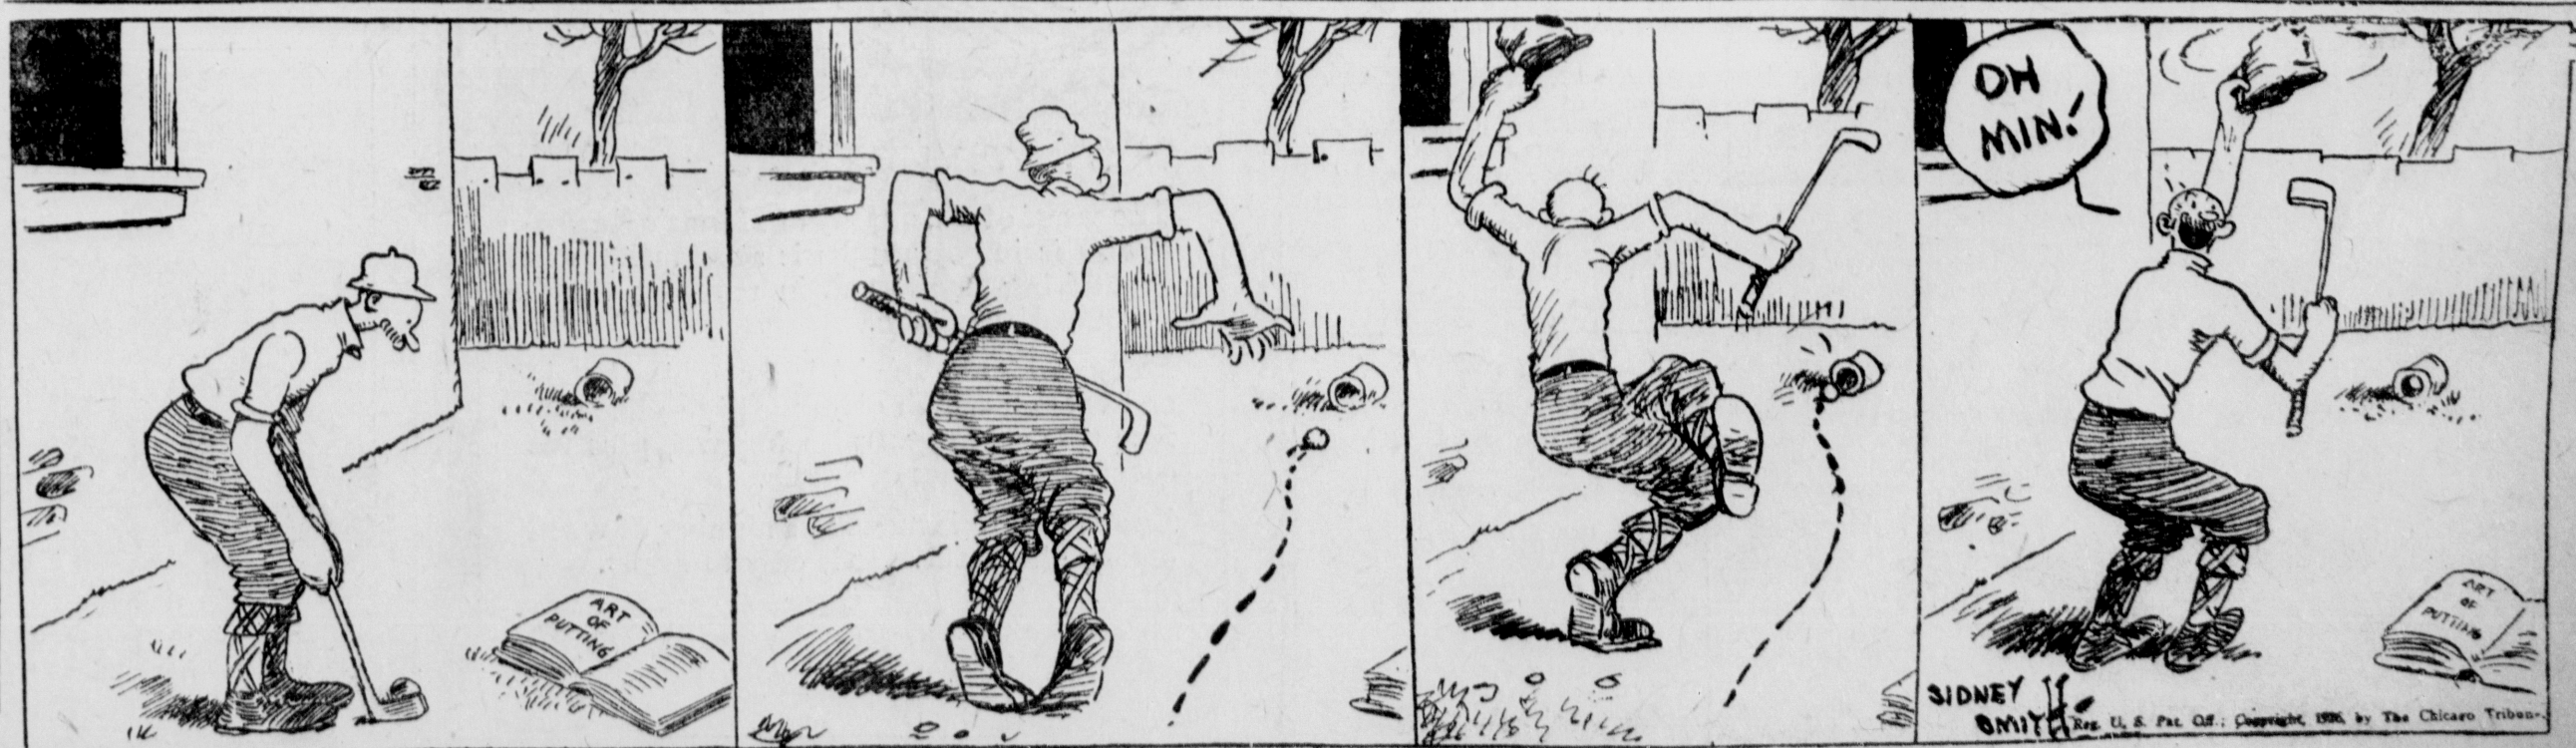

Today there are few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the National factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

IRVING BERLIN

The name of Irving Berlin has of late been in the newspaper headlines again.

The man who was once a singing waiter, fighting life in one of the world's most terrifying battlefields, the New York Bowery now finds himself famous.

He started his career in that poverty stricken manner which highbrows love to talk and write about, mixing the word 'art' frequently in their conversation.

Unfortunately for Berlin's status as a "classic" musician, but fortunately for his worldly and material success, he coupled with his music a business talent and a gift of making progress in other things besides the writing of music.

For that reason and because he appealed to the great mass of people Berlin can never be written into history as 'a master'.

Not that some of the songs he has written would not compare favorably with the songs of some of the great German writers, not that the words of these songs are less sensible, not that the melodies are less sweet, not that they contain less of the real pathos and delight of life, but because the writer is popular, successful and, sad to say, an American. But for these latter handicaps, some critic might have discovered Berlin and before the people could have seized on his music, before the men who publish songs could have adorned the covers with pictures of vividly beautiful girls, named him as a master, a classic, told how he sacrificed even his appetite to his art, and worshipped at his shrine.

As things stand, Berlin will die some day, be praised for his success, not in the musical sense of the world, and be criticized as very contemporary by obituary writers, even as the great Puccini was criticized. It is customary to wait until a man dies before writing 'he brought joy and happiness to millions of people.' But why wait?

SPURNED

OF its literary men the public demands originality and eccentricity in the sense of being different from the common mold. It is one of the professional obligations of the author to promulgate new ideas and to travel ever away from the conventional and the expected.

Sinclair Lewis' rejection of the $1000 Pulitzer prize, awarded for his novel "Arrowsmith" was not anticipated but such a step by some author is now seen to have been inevitable. With so many prizes and so many winners accepting them here was a long neglected opportunity for some writer to be different by rejecting one.

Lewis' reasons for rejecting the Pulitzer award have some merit if they are as he states them and his action was not prompted by a genius for self-exploitation. His letter to the prize committee sets forth that he is protesting against this sort of compulsion put upon writers to become safe, polite, obedient and sterile. He contends the prize is awarded not for literary merit but for conformity to the moment's code of good form, and that literary prizes are dangerous because they make their administrators supreme courts impossible to challenge.

A CORRECTION

The article in the Gazette, Friday the 14th, in connection with the time question, on some points, was misleading and incorrect. When it stated one man signed the petition four times with no explanation, was absurd, as no duplicate signatures occurred. H. L. Binder signed for his two picture houses and two auto sales rooms, which the city officials said was legal. The statement also, that I was the only representative at the Commissioners meeting in

Reader: "Can anyone give me a recipe for Creole Cake with soft white frosting?"

Answer: Perhaps one of our Columbus Sisters will happen to have this recipe and will write it on a postal and send it to me for publication?

L.: "I have been given a feather bed which has a musty odor. Can I wash it successfully, and how?"

Answer: Feather pillows are very successfully washed but a feather bed is so large that it must first be made into small bags or pillows before being washed. To get feathers from one tick to another, rip about six or eight inches of the seam in one end of each tick, baste the edges together, then shake the feathers from the full tick into the empty tick. In this way, feathers are not scattered. To Wash Feather Pillows, Boil 15 minutes in a boilerful of water softened with one-third cup of borax and one tablespoon of household ammonia. Never use soap or soda on feather pillows. Lift the pillows out of the boiler with a stick, lay them on the washboard and scrub the tick with a stiff brush dipped in heavy soda (if the tick is soiled). Rinse in two waters, squeeze as dry as possible, shake vigorously and pin on your clothesline in a shady spot. Shake from time to time and hang up by new corners. Do not leave out after the dew falls. Three or four days may be required to dry them thoroughly.

Uninformed: "Please tell me how the new small grapejuice glasses are used—when and with what else?"

Answer: There is a vogue at present for using them at auction-bridge refreshments-time, with cake and sandwiches. Or, at a guest dinner they may be used (filled with grapejuice) beside the water goblets. Indeed, all over America today, these small grapejuice or gingerale glasses in conjunction with a small stemmed glass filled with fruit punch, and the water goblet, are used in place of wine

SIDELIGHTS ON Greene County History

LIVESTOCK OF COUNTY

With establishment of the Greene County Agricultural Society in 1833 more attention was paid to the improvement of all kinds of live stock. The step taken in 1880 regarding sheep, followed by the beginning of the county fair three years later, marks a new step in the livestock industry of the county.

Whatever may have been the standing of the farmers of the county in earlier years, the fact remains that today they stand at the top in the live-stock industry in Ohio. Statement has also been made frequently, and not disputed, Greene County produces more pure-blood, registered live stock, more varieties and of a higher class than any other spot on the globe for its size.

The live-stock breeders of the county have been exhibiting at the state fair at Columbus, for more than a quarter of a century, and in some years there are as many as twenty exhibitors from the county. On more than one occasion they have won as much as $2,000 in prizes on their horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.

Hundreds of prizes have been won at the state fair by Greene County farmers and not a few of national exhibits. It is actually true the cash prizes won by Greene County exhibitors at the state fair total more than the combined winnings of any other three counties of the state. Many of the best stockmen have been exhibiting for years at the state fairs of other states and at livestock shows all over the United States. Blooded live stock raised in this county is shipped to practically every state in the union, and on more than one occasion to Europe.

One of the greatest showings the county ever made was at the St. Louis Exposition in 1903 when five breeders of the county competed with the best the world had to offer and carried home 140 prizes. Of this total there were fifty first prizes including some of the most valuable offered.

The International Stock Show held at Chicago each year has seen Greene County stock exhibited, and no year goes by that some championship is not won by local breeders. A bull from the herd of O. E. Bradfute was champion of his class for three straight years, a record unequaled in ancient and modern times. Another Greene County bull achieved a record almost as good. Wherever a cattleman may be found, he will have heard of Lucy's Prince and White-hall Sultan.

Bradfute was also one of the nine men who helped organize the International Stock Show at Chicago. No other county in the country is as well represented with officers and directors of the leading live stock pedigree registry associations of America as Greene.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Finds it Hard to Shop for Other People BY J. V. JAY

Such a nice, long letter from Estelle," announces Mitzi. Estelle is going to be married, and just think she's near a nervous breakdown and has called upon Mitzi to help her out. Will Mitzi please do a little shopping for her? There follows two or three pages of items.

Now that Mitzi sees these pocketbooks are marked so reasonably, she must have one. The pocket books are large and of reptile skin in plain and mod- tied effects. When a shopping list is out of sight it is certainly out of mind. Mitzi never realized how many things she needed for herself.

At the end of the day Mitzi thinks she should do a little checking up. Here are some of her purchases. Not one of them tallies with anything on Estelle's list. The list is just as long as ever. But Mitzi needs a little organized labor. Well, tomorrow is another day. A shopping day for Mitzi, too.

Today's Talk

ON SAYING THINGS

There is always a beautiful way to say things. Just as there is a beautiful way to act or to build a house or to finish a room.

The lovely character cannot help but give expression to beautiful thoughts that come out in words full of pleasing appeal.

Everyone, upon maturity, has a way of expressing themselves in words. And this way gives you the key to their character. It may be beautiful or an ugly way that they may have.

But there is always a beautiful way to say everything. Nothing so cuts into one's heart as a mis-spoken word that falls clumsily. Rarely, perhaps, the hurt was meant at all. Nevertheless when a word has gone from the lips, it cannot be recalled. Years may go, but so long as memory lives, the scar of a mis-spoken word may remain.

It is fine to forgive and to forget so far as on your power lies, but to be highly tuned to the receipt of beautiful words from a warm and understanding heart is to own one of the finest gifts God gives to human beings.

The beautiful way of saying things to everybody you know or meet is the only way. The other way wasn't meant at all.

If you can't speak sincerely and well, then don't speak at all. Silence leaves no sad memories.

The happy voice over the telephone, the early morning greeting, the first words after separation from your friends—how important to make them full of beauty vibrant with the soul of joy.

Al Regan, although he defeated Arch Jeffries two games in three in a Class A match Saturday night in his final match in the city's individual bowling tournament, fell one game shy of tying William Horner for leadership of the division.

By taking three games, Regan would have made a roll-off necessary. He ended the season with a record of seventeen victories against ten defeats. Horner finishing with eighteen wins and nine losses. Ben Dice, should he win three straight from Charles Malavazos this week, will tie

SCHOOL DISTRICT SUIT IS STARTED

Trial of the $170 suit of Walter Hess against the Beaver Creek Twp., Rural School District board of education began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday without a jury.

The children were allowed to attend Xenia Central High School, three miles distant, instead of Beaver Creek High School, four miles away, during that period, plaintiff continues.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia," in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Beside it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

DRUG STORE PROVES FAVORITE RENDEZVOUS FOR XENIA LOAFERS

"Meet you at—" Village, hamlet, city, notwithstanding the size of the community every town has its favorite meeting place, its own rendezvous where devoted couples, boys or girls make appointments and lounge around to gossip.

Of course the type of meeting place will depend largely upon the size of the community. In a city the size of Xenia it might be a drug store and as a matter of fact it is a drug store, more than one, however.

Drug Stores on E. Main and S. Detroit St. are Xenia's own spots where young people are in the habit of meeting.

Their popularity is not hard to explain as favorite meeting places must have certain qualifications or they would not be a mecca for the leisure-loving persons. Their popularity may decline as such after a certain length of time but it revives.

Presence of a clock is no doubt one requirement. That is why traction car or railway terminals, if located advantageously, are among the favorites.

Reason for a clock explains itself. It is evident if persons make an appointment they will wish to glance at a clock to see if their dates are being kept. Shelter, particularly in bad weather, is important.

Xenia drug stores are in demand because they are centrally located, they are close to places of amusement and business establishments, also to street car and bus stops.

establishment. Stock attractively displayed may catch the eye of someone waiting and a sale results. Especially is it true in Xenia the soda fountain operator knows the value of having young people loiter er near the counter. It is surprising how some people will "kill" a little time by lingering over some tasty drink or dish.

There are usually so many attractions at these waiting places that loafing may become rather expensive in time.

CENTRAL SENIORS TO HOLD CLASS DAY EXERCISES MAY 28

An innovation in school programs, Class Day exercises will be held by students of Central High School at Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Friday afternoon, May 28, at 1:30 o'clock.

Class Day program was arranged by a student committee composed of Miss Helen Reutinger and Edward Flynn. Plans include the reading of the "class will" the "class prophecy" the valedictory, presentation of the senior class memorial and the announcement of the recipient of the Premier Rose. Names of the students honored with the Premier Rose, signifying high standing in scholastic and social work and general popularity, will not be divulged until Class Day according to Principal Spencer Shank. Presentation of the Premier Rose was inaugurated several years ago, the flower being presented to boy and girl representatives of the senior class.

Valedictory will be given by Miss Maud Winn Monroe. Miss Dorothy Bocklett will read the class prophecy and Melvin McDaniel will read the class will.

Presentation of the class memorial will be made by George Perrill, president of the senior class. Hubert Glass, member of the junior class and representing the entire student body will acknowledge the gift.

Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra.

RADIO WISE CRACKS WILL ROUT STATIC BLUES-COMPETE WITH FLIVVER JOKES

"McGirk got married yesterday."
"Oh, did they go on a honey-moon?"
"Naw, they stayed home and heard the roar of Niagara Falls broadcast."

Salesman—"This radio is great for home amusement. You can tune in on the funniest programs in the world."

Customer—"I don't need it. I'm on a party line telephone."

"The invention of radio is not so new."
"No?"
"No. The first loudspeaker was made from Adam's rib."

"I told Bill I got a raise and was going to buy a six tube set."
"What did he say?"
"He patted me on the head and said: 'Pretty soft, kid, pretty soft!'"

"That stuff coming in tonight sure sounds wild!"
"You'd be wild too if you were just coming out of the ether."

"There's my new radio set."
"Will it work, or did you build it yourself?"

"The trouble with radio is that you listen but can't talk back."

"Oh, I'm used to that. I've been married for twenty-one years."

"I can't figure out what's wrong with my set. Maybe I need a new vacuum tube."

"Use your head, man, use your head."

"Who invented radio concerts?"
"A homely soprano."

Woman (in radio store)—"I want to get a battery for my husband's radio."
Clerk—"A storage battery?"
Woman—"Ce: ain't no. I want a fresh one."

"I used bicycle spokes for a loop and got Wheeling."
"That's nothing. I put my loud speaker on the folding bed and got Davenport."

Salesman—"This set reproduces wonderfully."
Buyer—"Yes, but who wants a lot of little radios running around the house?"

"What makes the radio cough and sneeze like that?"
"It's got a bad case of hook-ups."

Woman—"How much charge for this radio battery?"
Clerk—"Ten and a half volts."

Woman—"How much is that in American money?"

"So your new cook left the day after she came?"
"Yes. She couldn't get her home town on the radio set."

Loudspeaker—"Bang! Crash! Help! Murder! Police! Bang!"
Radio Fan—"Hooray, I've got Chicago!"

The Theatre

Two guests of honor were given the same topic "What shall we do about jazz?" at a music forum luncheon in Manhattan last week, given by the American League of Professional Women.

Mme d'Alvarez, Peruvian contralto, declared "Jazz is my reason for living in New York City. I prefer to live in New York because here I find the inspiration of good jazz music. New York is jazz incarnate. Its architecture, its business, its life-all sparkle to a syncopated measure. An honest jazz tune is better than a sermon on prohibiting anything. When I die I have only one request to make. I want music at my funeral but no dirge or mournful lament. Play only one thing and let that number be George Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue.' To me it is truly great music and certainly it is the music that best expresses us moderns."

Taking the place of the usual monument of marble, Arthur Hammerstein, famed Manhattan theatrical producer, son of Oscar, famed impresario, will build another memorial to his father who died in 1919. He will erect a "Temple of Music" fifteen stories high, to be used for light operas and musical shows "of a distinctive type." It will be at the corner of Broadway and 53rd St., with a seating capacity of 1,200, built with some $2,000,000 of the profits of "Rose-Marie." In the lobby will stand a life-size figure of the elder Hammerstein. At the official opening, probably in September, 1927, will appear many of the singers who began or advanced their professional careers under his banner—Melba, Calve, Tetrazzini, Mary Garden and John McCormack.

Fifteen years' experience has taught casting directors and movie producers generally that women are things to be loved, not hated.

Theda Bara, in the belief of James Cruze, film director, was the only woman who ever scored a success as a screen villain. Directors and producers have given up the search for an actress to duplicate the feat of Theda in "The Vampire," filmed more than a decade ago. "The public can not hate a feminine villain," Cruze says.

MAKE CAPITAL OF MOTHERS' DAY TIME

COLUMBUS, O., May 18—Figures assembled covering retail sales in various Ohio cities for the two weeks prior to Mother's Day, show that the rapidly increasing observance of this holiday is developing a new merchandising season, comparable to that which precedes Easter and Christmas.

Reports received from department, dry goods, jewelry, furniture and music stores show that in nearly every Ohio city, substantial and luxurious articles, suitable for Mother's Day gifts, were sold in tremendous volume. Sales this year were far larger than last.

Experts in marketing and distribution this year studied very carefully the growing tendency of the American people to make Mother's Day a general gift-giving occasion. They point out that holiday observance has a tre-

My Matrimonial Vacation VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time War," "The Husband Tamer," "One Wife on Approval," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXVII—A THREAT FOR THE FUTURE

I COULD hardly sleep that night for wondering about Nathalie Jordan. There could be no mistake about it being her husband whom I had seen at the door of her apartment house. If he went to her and begged her to forgive him, would she do it? Or would she be hard and relentless and turn away from him?

I tried to put myself in her place. If Jim wanted to begin all over me again, I was sure that I'd be glad to do it. But then, even though I'd tried hard I'd never been able to stop caring for him.

I got up early the next morning, thinking that I'd stop on the way home from my morning walk and see Nathalie. I was sure that she would tell me if she and her husband had made up their differences.

The park was beautiful, and almost empty. There were a few horseback riders on the bridge path, and I passed two girls who evidently were waiting to work. I couldn't help wishing that I could do something practical, and had a job, so that my time amounted to something.

I felt very useless, just good for nothing. It was only when I remembered that I had been of some help to Nathalie, and to Nick, that I felt more cheerful.

I was tramping along a side path, enjoying the sharp, crisp air, when I heard a man's voice say "Mrs. Larrabee! Just a moment!"

Turning quickly I saw Phil Leland at my side.

He was anything but welcome. After the events that had taken place at our last meeting I hadn't expected ever to see him again if he could possibly help it.

"I won't keep you long," he said abruptly. "I just want to warn you that if I can get even with you for what you did the other night I'll do it."

"You mean my spilling your plan to blackmail Nathalie Jordan?" I asked.

He winced at my plain speaking. "You had no right to interfere—you're as much of a crook as I am," he told me. "I suppose you think she's your game, and you don't want anybody else to step in. Well, I'm not through yet, and before I get through you're going to be sorry that you stood in my way."

He turned then and went off in the other direction. I watched him

"You were awfully clever!"

sent him straight to her, realizing that he cared for her and wanted to protect her.

But the next day I received a square white box, which contained a gold mesh bag with an emerald clasp, the duplicate of the one I had lost one evening when I was out with Nathalie and Phil Leland.

"Dear Nancy," Nathalie had written on the card. "You lost your own bag because I saw fit to keep questionable company—I shall always feel sure that Phil Leland took it. So won't you please accept this from me. In restitution, and as a token of my deep affection for you."

I laughed softly as I picked it up. Evidently fate intended me to have a beautiful bag, no matter how many times a new one had to be given me. I thought of the little cheap one that I had lost, and of the beautiful one Frank Harrison had given me to make up for it—and then I had lost that, and now Nathalie was sending me another one.

What would happen to this bag? If I knew the answer to that question, I would have thrown the bag out of the window that very moment.
